

Theme of the 24th General Chapter

Trust and Dare.

Content with little, we joyfully direct our entire lives toward that oneness for which Jesus Christ was sent.

Explanation of the Theme from the 11th Extended General Council

At this critical turning point in the history of humanity and all of creation, we, the School Sisters of Notre Dame, hear and accept our call. We recognize that the source and center of our personal, communal, and apostolic life is our union with God. Trusting in God, and embracing our charism and reality as an international congregation, we dare to discern new and unsuspected ways to be freed for the service of God's reign.

As we identify more deeply with Christ, his desire that all be one becomes ours. Therefore, we dare to love, to live simply, and, as educators, to address creatively the emerging needs of our times.

With joy we trust and dare together.

You are Sent, C 4, 15, 16, 17, 27, 46; and GD 37
